.... DEDICATION

To a first grader Cal is over fourteen feet high and picks up school buses in his bare hands.

Even when things assume a clearer perspective by the time one is a ripe old fifth grader, Cal is still a little bigger than life-size: then, and as we mature, we can appreciate the heart that is as big as a work bench, the patience that is as infinite as the number of times he has been asked the question, "What do I do now, Cal?"

From you we have learned a lot more than the use of tools and the importance of craftsmanship. We have learned the meaning of friend.

FOOTBALL

Many adjectives have been used to describe Country Day football teams: aggressive, cocky, well-coached, and so on. With teams chosen each year from about fifty eligible boys, we have in the past three years won the conference championship twice and tied for it once. There are not many adjectives to describe this accomplishment.

This year all was going well until the Wayland game. In that one a determined goal line stand in the last minutes of the game proved too much for the Country Day offense, and we took our first loss of three seasons. The next four games were victories for us, and we then met M.U.S. on their field. They were unbeaten at that point and needed only a victory over us to clinch the championship. With less than thirty seconds left in the game we led by one point, and M.U.S. had the ball deep in Country Day territory. When a long M.U.S. pass was intercepted inside the twenty yard line, the Lancers' championship hopes were smashed. A week later we beat Lake Forest, thereby tying M.U.S. for first place in the Mid-West Prep Conference.

Country Day spirit is not the wild enthusiasm and well-organized cheering that outsiders often criticize us for not having. It is more the quiet and loyal devotion of each player. Country Day football teams are characterized by each boy's willingness to sacrifice some personal comfort for the team, whether it be a Friday night date or ten extra windsprints on a Tuesday afternoon.

This year's basketball season was one of many ups and downs. All our wins and all our losses seemed to come in spurts and there were many periods of sheer joy followed by utter desperation.

The season started on a low note and we lost our first four games by a total of nine points. Then the team began working together and after a close loss to Wayland, won the next six conference games. Because of scheduling, most of our home games came early in the season and consequently we were forced to play many of our later-season games in our opponents' gyms. Any basketball player can tell about "home-floor advantage," and we, too, did not fare too well away. Nevertheless, the team finished its conference season with an 8-6 record, and the third place finish was our best in six years.

The season ended with the Conference Tournament at Racine Lutheran. The Cougars were unfortunate to draw the host team in the first game. By a magnificent team effort, we managed to beat a team which had won substantially in a game two weeks before. Unfortunately, we had spent ourselves in the first game and did not win the next.

Highlights: Our 57-55 victory over MUS.

Lowlights: Our 51-49 defeat to winless Northwestern.

HOCKEY

Joys brings it up from the defensive zone.

This year's hockey season was kind to backs (practically no snow to shovel) but hard on the over all record of 2 and 5. We managed to outskate Lake Forest only once in four attempts, but we gleefully downed St. John's 2 to 1 on our rink. The high point of the season was the trip north to Rhinelander and Eagle River where the boys played their best hockey but because of lack of practice were outscored in both contests.

Goalie Bob Burke and defensemen Dave Joys and Tom Churchill were the strongmen of the defense, while Chip Uihlein (voted Most Valuable Player) led the offensive attacks.

WRESTLING

Drum wins his match.

The prospect of a winning wrestling season looked good as a squad of twenty-five boys bolstered by five letter-winners turned out for the first day of practice in the late fall. The new boys who rounded out the starting squad were eager to work and learn, but unfortunately most of them didn't begin to come around until the end of the season. The major factor responsible for the disappointing 2 and 10 record was the lack of experience.

On the brighter side we find that although in existence for only three years, Country Day wrestling has steadily attracted more students who find that their lack of size is not a bar to inter-scholastic competition. The 115 pound Freshman can contribute as much to the team as the 200 pound Senior. Success will come as the team members gain more experience.

IN THE MEANTIME . . .

Sterling my foot!

By golly, Yuri waved at me.

You say you wrote this all by yourself?
Let's see . . . "I have a dog. His name is Spot.
See Spot run. Come, Spot, come . . ."

No one thinks I look like Maurice Chevalier . . .

I wish this thing would hurry up and hatch.

Who says radiation has no effect?

You like it? I made it out of a cantaloupe.

You can call your lawyer when we finish this.

Et tu, Brute?

Gotcha!

You did not! I got you first.

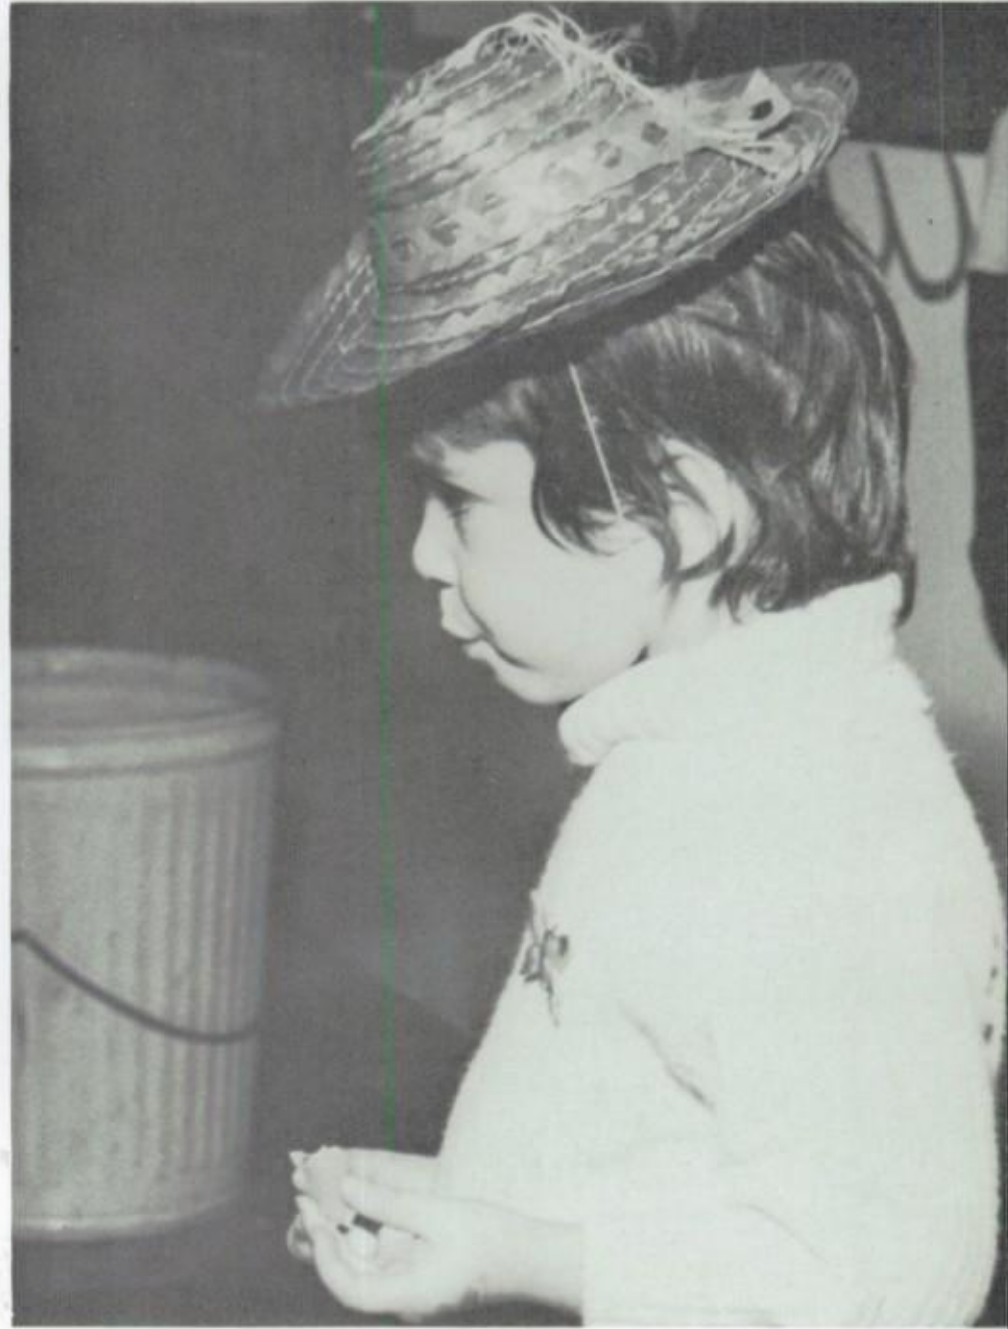

Maybe he'll fish out a can of Metrecal for me.

Hmmmm. Why don't you ask your father about that one?

You had five desserts this noon, Tom?

Just one more tamale and I'll hit the road.

Next time keep your greasy hands off my baseball cards!

If I get real good at this maybe the Art Center will buy one.

What would you do about Quemoy and Matsu, Senator?

Agent X34269,
this is Captain Jet calling . . .

Score? What score? Man, we just come here to BLOW.

A funny thing happened to me on my way to Madison.

277 days until summer vacation!

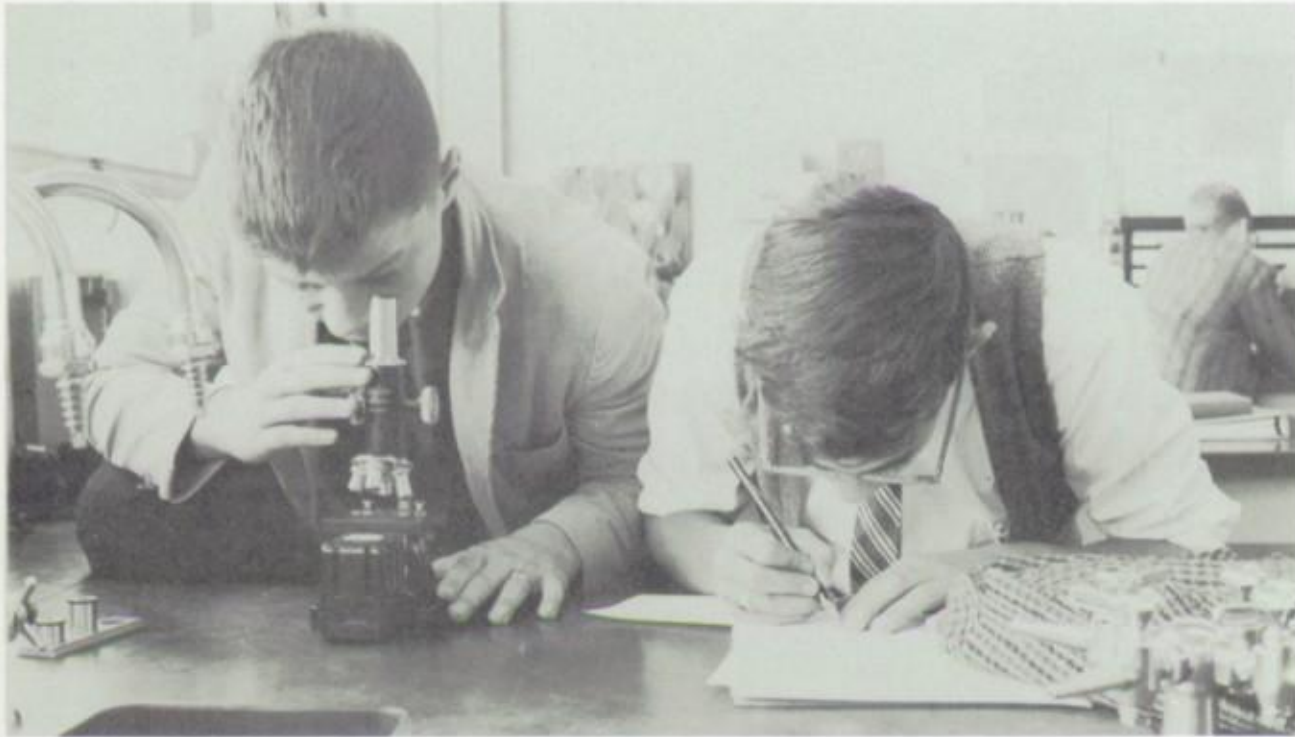

Yankee, go home!

It sure is . . . that's the kind of car they made when Mr. Stephens was in college.

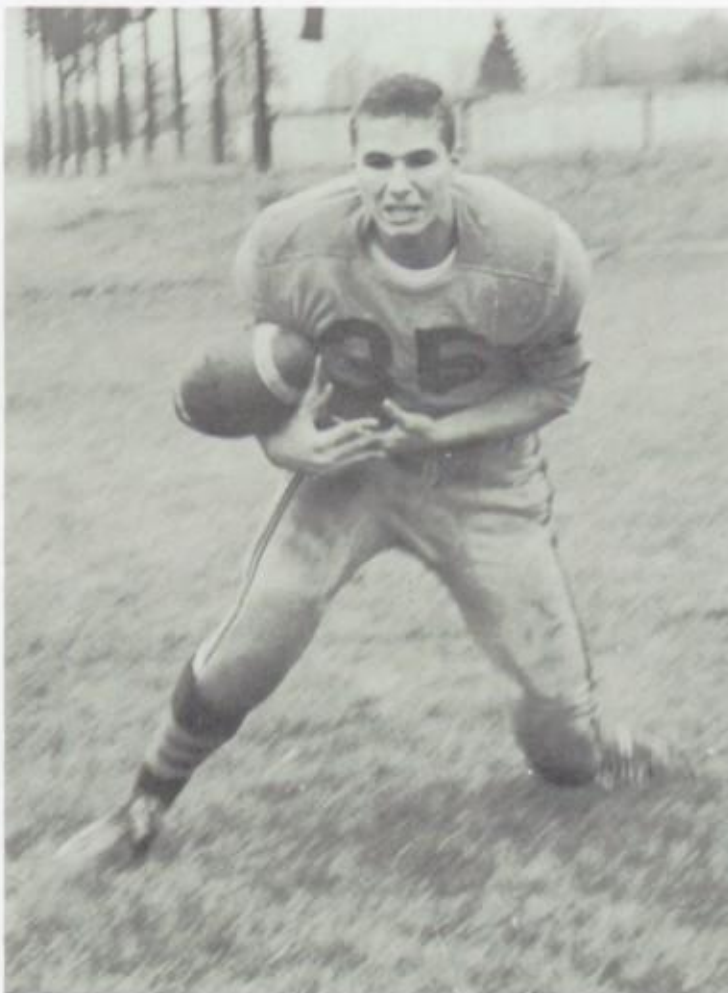

This looks like my necktie.
It IS your necktie.

Ha! Now I can watch
Captain Kangaroo.

Well, at least it didn't hit me
on the head this time.

The nice thing about it is that
I never have to have it pressed.

And everyone takes a shower BEFORE the tea.
Is that clear?

Look kid, I happen to know that  $F = MA$ .

Well, it's only another week until summer vacation.

Stick with me kid and your name will be in lights.

We hope that the pictures on the following pages give the reader some idea of what life is like in the Junior School. Accompanying each is a caption. Those captions enclosed within quotation marks are the verbatim responses of classmates who were shown the pictures and asked to say something about them.

"He's makin' a sand castle."

"I go EEEYOW and turn a corner."

"Cal wants to have him see real well."

"If it hits his head
it won't hurt him."

"That's a teeter-totter.
BANG! It hits the ground!"

"Sometimes we pretend we're a bear in there or a wolverine or a tiger."

"They always do that to us in five-year-old kindergarten."

"Mrs. Sawyer is nice. She tells us stories."

"This happened in the summer time."
 "No, that happened in spring. We don't go to school in summer."

"They're washing Tiny Tears."

"I was helping him with that arithmetic thing"

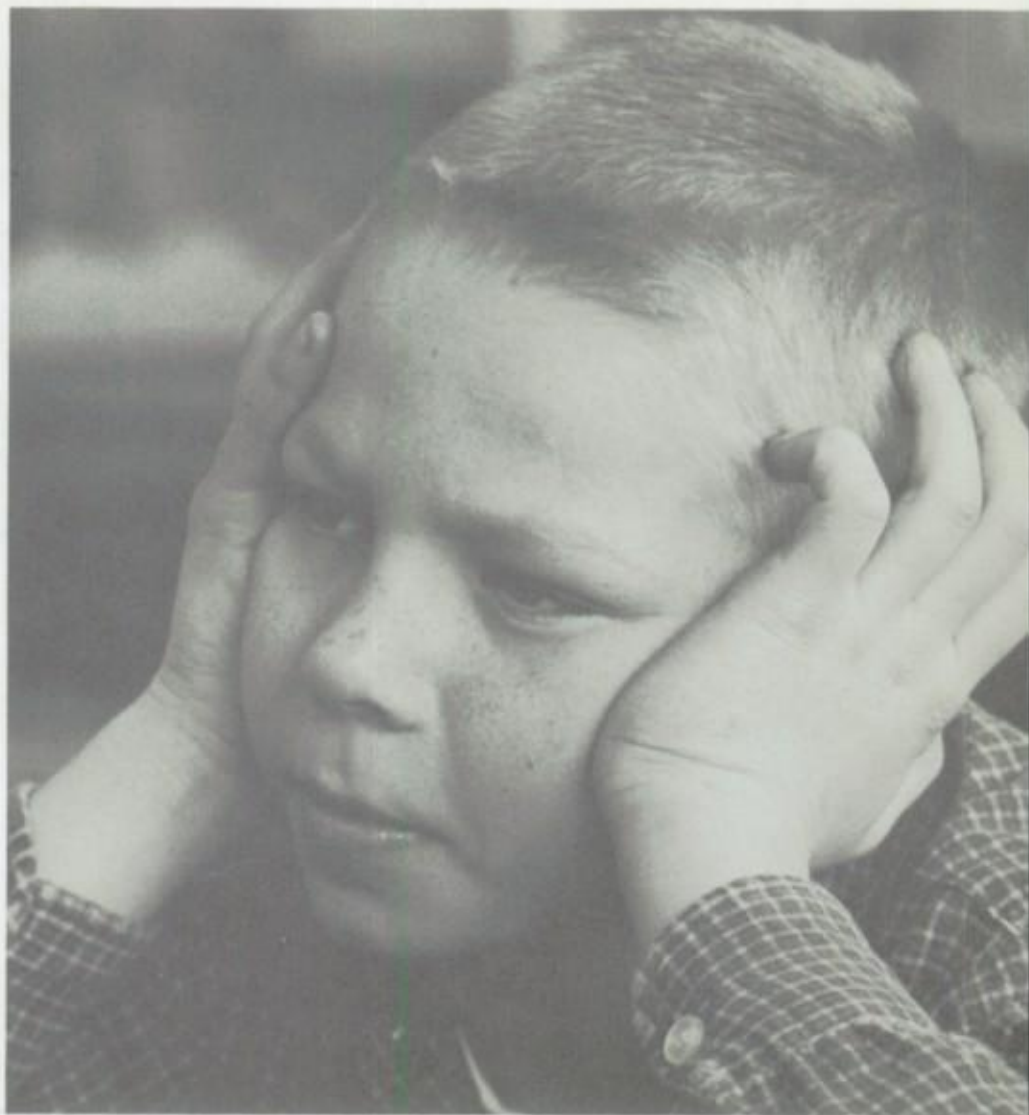

"I betcha he doesn't know a word."

"Nine times nine, Mr. Krueger?"

"I don't get it, Mr. Kruse."

"He probably knows the question."

"He's thinking of what thing he should say."

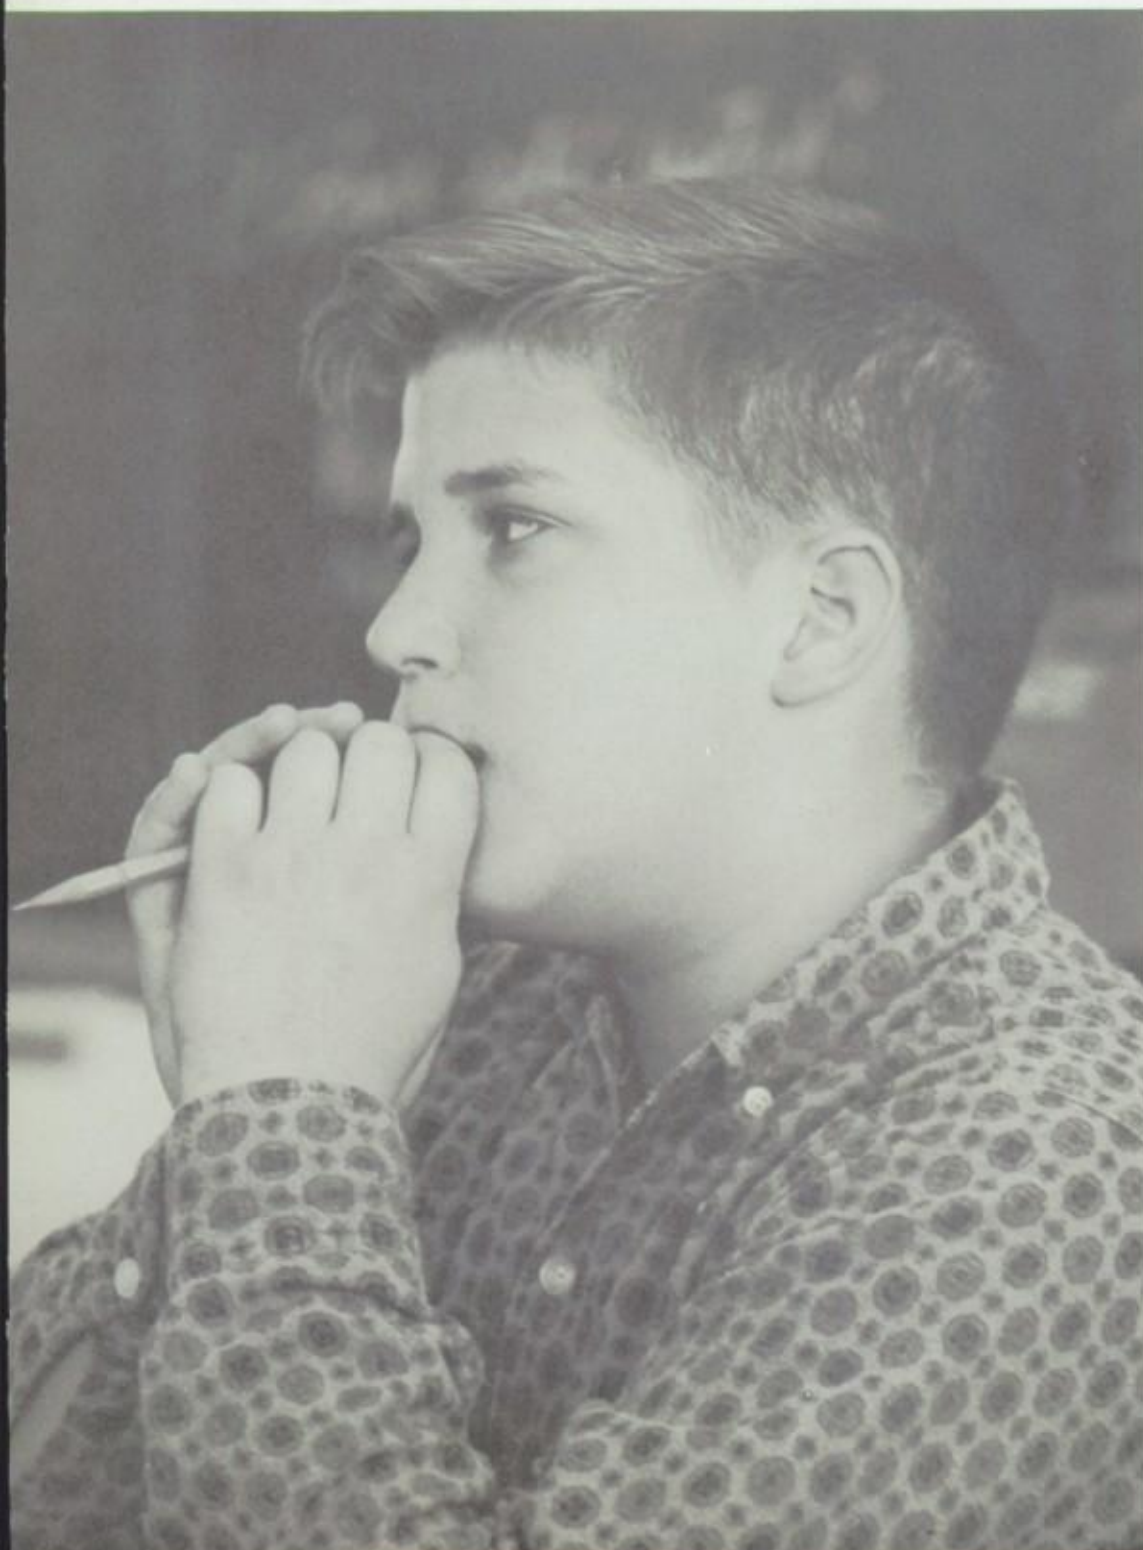

"This was when we sang at the Christmas Play."

"I handed it in yesterday."

"Poncho is concentrating."

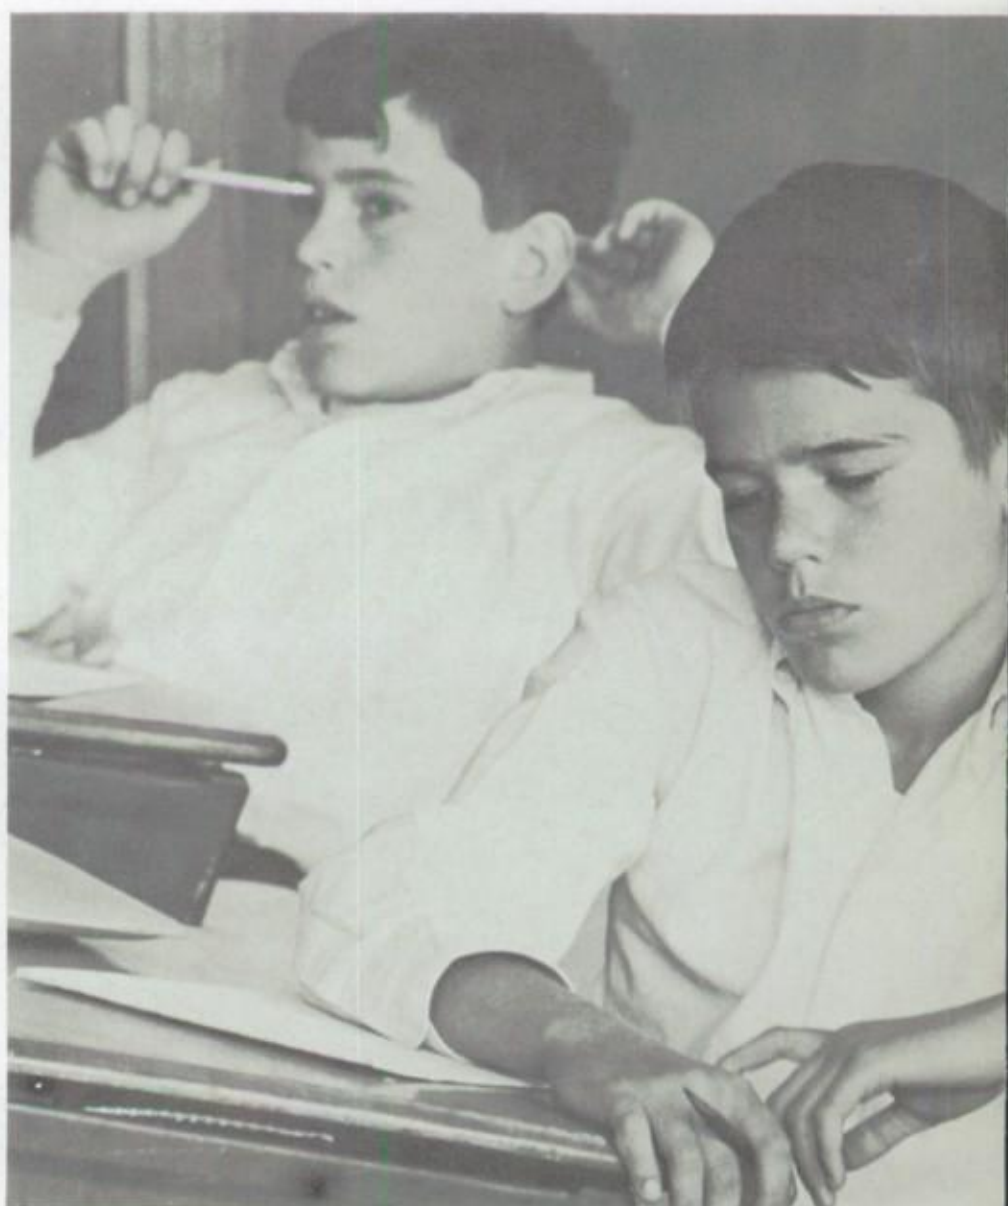

A bewildered outfielder.

"He knew Mr. Seyfert was taking his picture."

"Did you do your homework?"

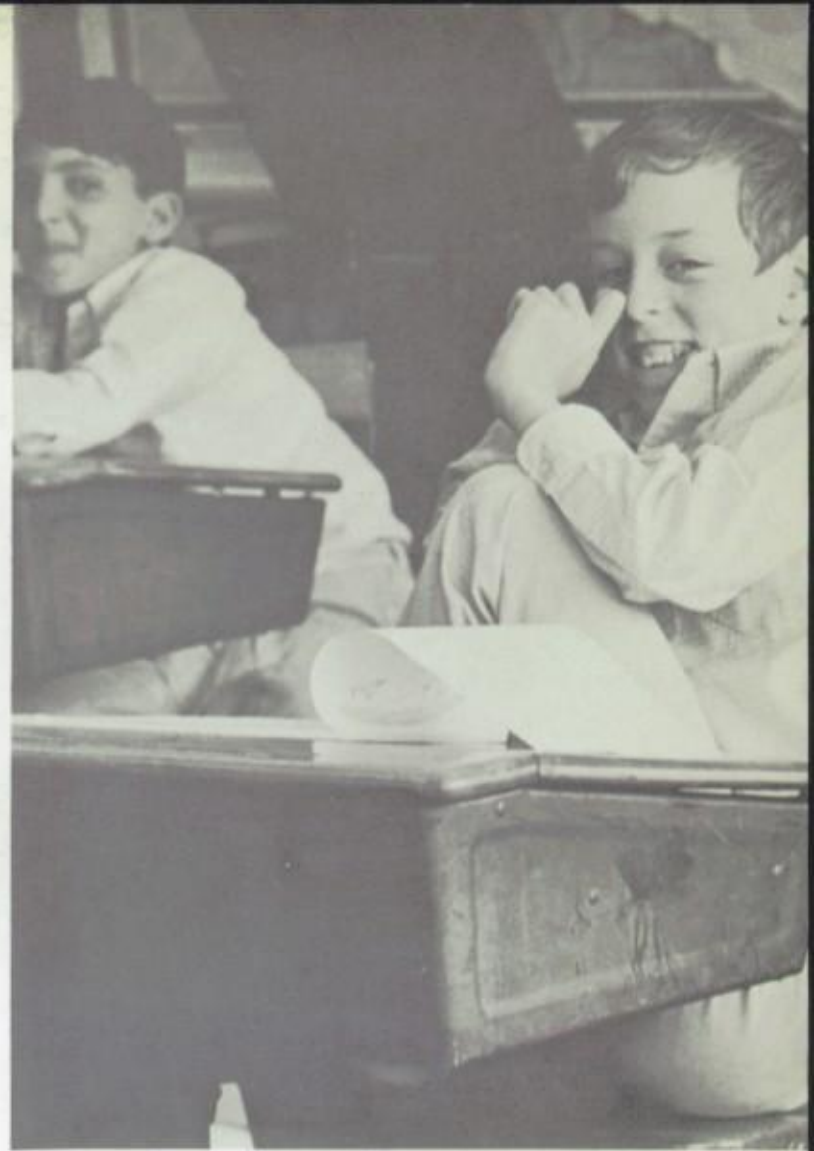

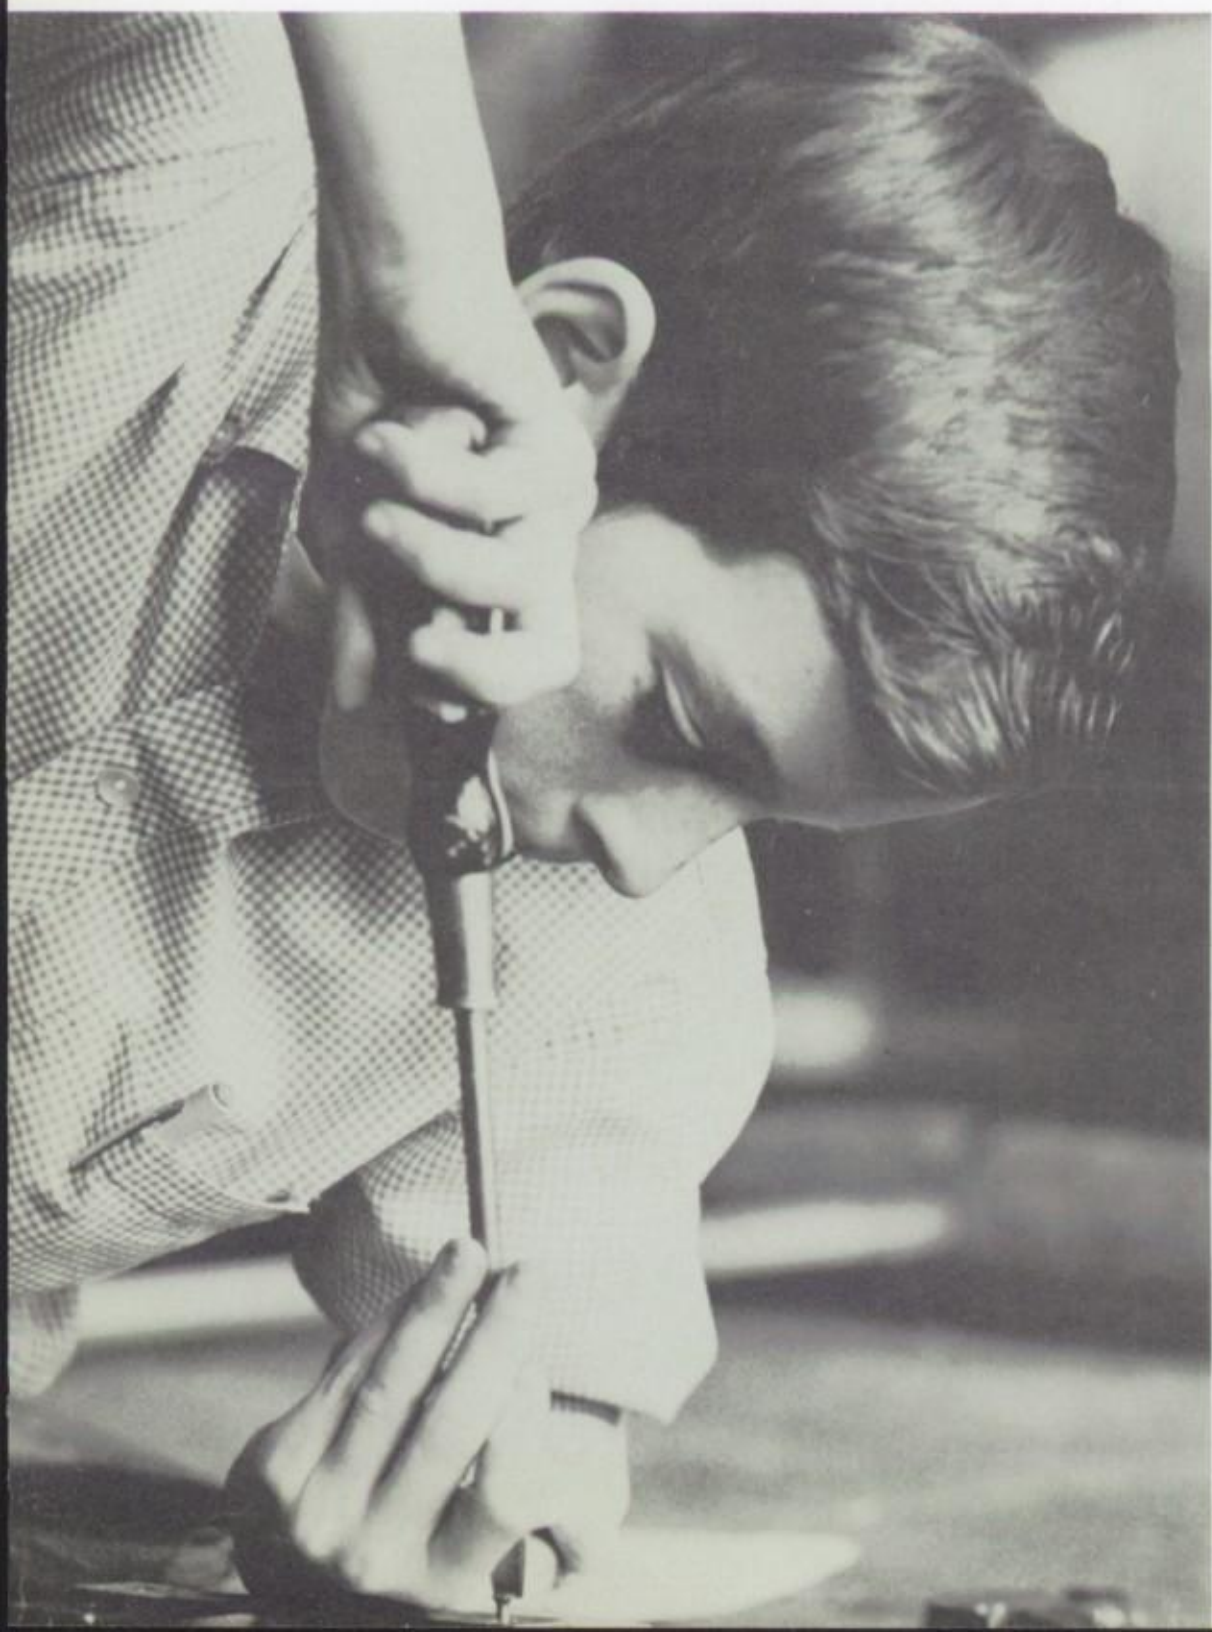

"This was taken while we were reading our imaginative stories."

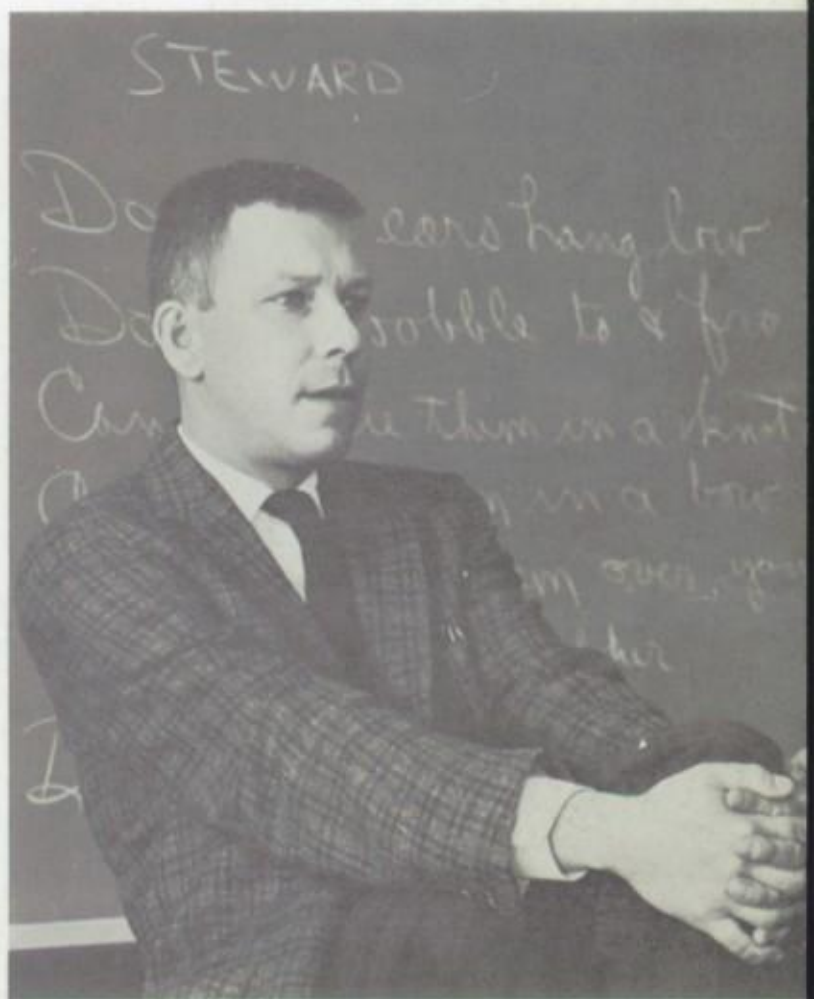

"It's almost time for the bell to ring."
